Yoko Kawashima Watkins

The bamboo grove by Yoko Kawashima Watkins is a semi-autobiographical novel written by Yoko Kawashima Watkins. The story is set in the final days of World War II in Korea and Japan. The main character, Yoko, is an eleven-year-old girl who escapes from Korea to Japan with her mother and sister at the end of World War II. The story describes the hardships, poverty, and struggles of life for Yoko and her family during this time.

The story focuses on the life of a family of Japanese refugees in Korea after World War II, and the suffering caused by the Japanese occupation. It is a coming-of-age story in which Yoko learns how to survive by her wits and much luck. The story is a fictionalized autobiography, and Ms. Watkins has done an excellent job to bring her alleged experience to life. Her lack of historical context if not complete absence of such however is at the very least grossly irresponsible. As such, we only see refugees en masse after so many years of foreign rule and hardly knows their journey, get this from a library so far from the bamboo grove.
