The Yamaha FZR600 was introduced in 1989. It is a sports motorcycle produced by Yamaha between 1989 and 1999. The original steel-framed 3He FZR600 remained virtually unchanged throughout, and was the successor to the FZ600 and was replaced by the YZF 600R 3He in 1990.

Yamaha produced the FZR600 from 1989 thru 1999. It was discontinued in 1999 due to the age of the design and the competing 600cc sportbike offerings from other manufacturers. The FZR600 was designed to be a streetfighter and was known for its reliability and handling.

The FZR600 was powered by a liquid-cooled, DOHC, 16-valve, transverse four-cylinder engine with a bore and stroke of 70 x 55 mm, producing 87 kW (117 hp) at 9600 rpm and 75 N·m (55 lb·ft) of torque at 8000 rpm. The bike weighed 198 kg (437 lb) and had a top speed of 245 km/h (152 mph).

The FZR600 was loved by many for its performance and reliability, but due to its age and the increasing popularity of newer, more advanced motorcycles, it was eventually discontinued. Yamaha continues to produce high-quality motorcycles, but the FZR600 remains a favorite among collectors and enthusiasts for its classic design and engineering.
